CHINESE PILOT KILLED IN ODD ACCIDENT

Shanghai, To-day.

An unique aerial accident is reported to have occurred during a fight between Japanese pursuit planes and Chinese bombers near Anking.

When the pilot of one Chinese bombing plane which was disabled by the Japanese fighters tried to save his life by a parachute descent, a Japanese pursuit plane collided with the parachute tearing it to pieces so that the Chinese airman hurtled to the ground with tremendous force, being killed instantaneously.

The fragments of the destroyed parachute were found on the wings of the Japanese plane after landing. — Trans-Ocean.

JAPANESE REPORTS ON NANKING RAID

Shanghai, To-day.

Japanese reports issued this morning state that 10 Chinese bombers, escorted by pursuit planes, raided Siakwan at Nanking yesterday morning shortly after 9 a.m.

Bombs were concentrated on the Japanese warships anchored off Siakwan, but, as is customary, the report claims that none of vessels were hit and no damage was suffered.

Two Chinese raiders are said to have been brought down by Japanese A.A. guns at Nanking, and it is also added that five were shot down by Japanese planes which were sent up to engage the invading aircraft. — Our Own Correspondent.

SURPRISE RAID

Siaoshan, To-day.

A detachment of 400 Japanese troops, advancing from Kashing on the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway towards Sitang, was decimated by Chinese guerrillas in a surprise raid on July 2.

More than fifty Japanese were killed, several trench mortars

Fourteen Japanese Casualties In Shooting Affray

Shanghai, To-day.

That strong detachments of Chinese irregulars are harassing Japanese troops even in the environs of Greater-Shanghai is illustrated by an incident reported here yesterday.

According to the reports a Japanese motorlorry with 16 soldiers and two civilians was attacked by Chinese irregulars on the road from Chapu to Kashing, that is, only 80 kilometres south-west of Shantung.

SEVENTEEN CHOLERA CASES OVER WEEK-END

Seventeen cases of cholera were reported to the Medical authorities during the week-end.

Eight of them were from the Victoria registration district, two from Kowloon, two from the harbour.

There were also ten cases of typhoid fever, including seven from Kowloon.

Four cases of cerebro-spinal fever included three from Victoria.

SERIOUS DROUGHT IN SOUTH FUKIEN

Foochow, To-day.

The serious drought in South Fukien is expected to be relieved somewhat after rain yesterday on Lienkong, Hweian and other districts.

Several districts along the coast for a stretch of several weeks have not seen a single drop of rain. — Central News.

and two light machineguns were seized, while two steam launches were damaged and captured, it is claimed. — Central News.

FRENCH TAKING OVER THE PARACELS?

Shanghai, To-day.

It has been reliably learned here that Japan is eagerly waiting confirmation of a report that France has notified Britain of her intention to take over the Paracel Reefs, located south-east of Hainan Island.

Japan, it was learned, is preparing a protest note, should the report turn out to be correct. — Our Own Correspondent.

BRITISH CONSUL'S RESIDENCE IN FOOCHOW BOMBED

Canton, To-day.

A delayed official Chinese report states that the residence of the British Consul in Foochow was bombed on July 1st, but full details have not yet been received. — Reuter.

The raiders who opened fire with machine-guns were driven off only after the arrival of three other Japanese motorlorries.

In the shooting affray which ensued between the irregulars and the occupants of the Japanese motorlorries, the Chinese lost 8 dead. The Japanese lost altogether 14 men but the reports do not reveal how many of these were killed. — Trans-Ocean.

DO YOU ENJOY YOUR TENNIS?

You'll get much more fun out of your game of tennis if you know just how to hit the ball.

Here's the first of a short series of tennis tips—practise them in front of a looking-glass before you go on to the court.

Before you can begin to play the game you must know how to hold your racket correctly and learn how to make these three strokes: The forehand drive, the backhand drive, the service.

Try and get a friend to follow this series with you so that you can practise together.

Here are some hints on choosing your racket.

- * * *
- 1. Weight: From 12½oz. to 13oz.
- 2. Size of handle: This depends on the size of your hand. You should be able to grip it comfortably.

SAVORY CANAPE

- ¼ cup butter.
- 2 tablespoons capers.
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley.
- 1 teaspoon onion juice.
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice.
- 12 strips toast.
- 1 hard-cooked egg.
- 2 ounces caviar.

Cream butter and mix with it capers, parsley, onion juice and lemon juice. Spread on toast. In the center place one slice of hard-cooked egg and a small round of caviar.—Edith M. Barber.

3. Pick up the racket using the correct grip and swing it easily as though hitting a ball. Try several in this way till you find one that feels really comfortable.

THE GRIP.—1. Hold the racket at the end of the handle.

Here is a good way to get the correct grip. Pick the racket up between the half-open thumb and first finger of the right hand so that the handle fits into the space, then clasp the other fingers round so that the thumb just overlaps the first finger. In other words, shake hands with it.

2. Hold the racket out almost at arm's length and so that there is no angle between it and the wrist. Try to make it a continuation of the hand.

3. The "head" of the racket must always be just above the wrist, never below it.

4. The grip must be firm but not strained.

Wet the hair first, then work up a good lather. The oil acts as a treatment and the foamy lather a cleansing agent. Then rinse thoroughly, using a spray if possible.

New Shampoo Proves A Boon To Blondes

ELSIE PIERCE

Life isn't all golden for light-haired women. Most of them are faced with a "tarnish" problem. Keeping light hair light is no mean task. This task becomes increasingly difficult when the scalp is dry or covered with dandruff. Such conditions call for oil treatments, but oil treatments are, as a rule, darkening.

Imagine, then, the excitement at finding a new foamy oil shampoo which conditions fair hair with an oil treatment and at the same time cleanses away every darkening particle of grime and dirt. Its rich, foamy lather softens the hair and leaves it glistening and manageable.

The secret is the oil base which acts as an oil treatment but being soluble in water has no darkening effect. No after rinses such as lemon or vinegar are necessary.

IMPROVE TEXTURE AND COLOUR

If you are one who has tried hot oil applications only to find that while improving the texture the oil does menace the colour of your golden hair, whether it be natural or bleached, then you should find this foamy oil shampoo most satisfactory.

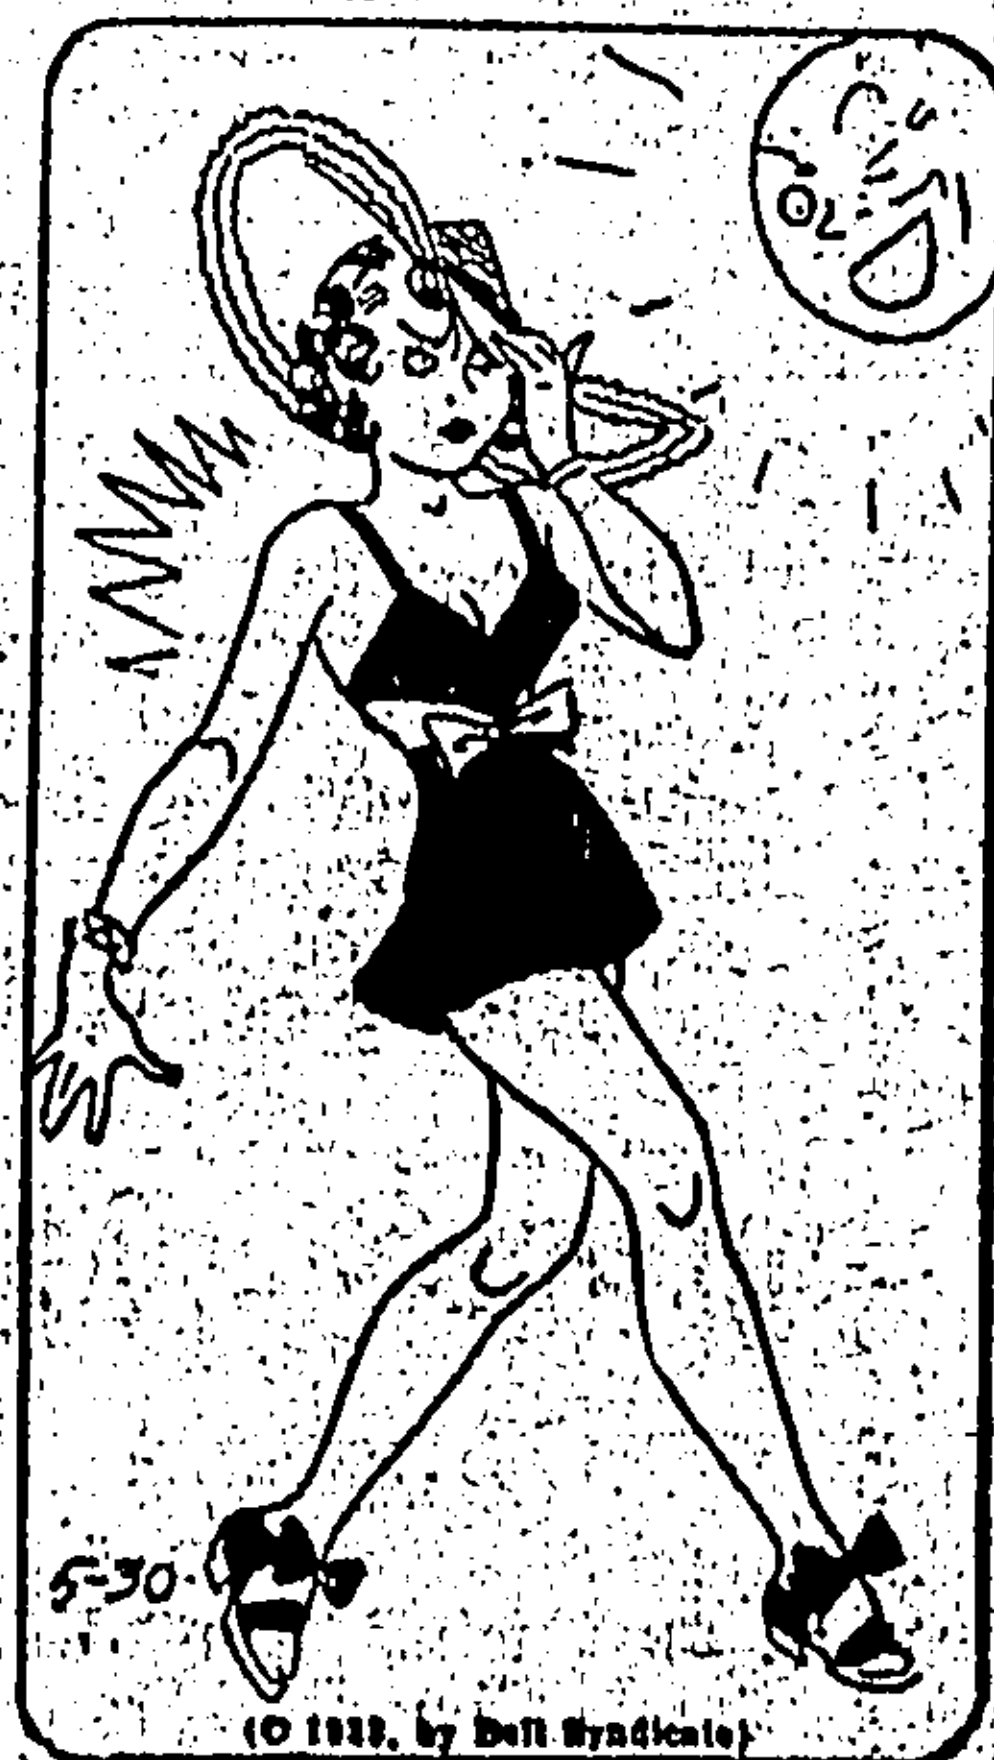

So many women feel that a good shampoo is so important that it is worth any price. I agree with them. And if you are one who doesn't want to bother making your own shampoo at home, if you would like a shampoo that leaves the hair pliable instead of in a "I can't do a thing with it" state, if you want a shampoo that is as effective in hard as in soft water and even in cold water the foamy oil shampoo is for you.

The makers explain that a small amount of this foamy oil shampoo is all that is necessary to do the job. The trick is not in the way you use it, but in the way it's made. Golden highlights... a burnished beauty look... these are the distinctive features that characterize blonde hair. Too often they are allowed to be lost, and that seems a pity when all you have to do is use a good shampoo.

ELSIE PIERCE.

Wonders Never Cease

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

Wonders haven't ceased yet anyway. We saw an exhibition of modern ideas in home building the other day that showed us how to do everything mechanically but put out the cat.

In the house, you could talk from upstairs to visitors at the front door without being heard all over the house. And a whole series of inside phones eliminated a lot of running around or calling.

The house number was illuminated so you could easily find it in the dark. There was also a special and safe receiver for packages to be delivered when nobody would be at home.

AIR CONDITIONING DE LUXE

The circulation of air in the kitchen kept a clean wholesome atmosphere here all the time, blowing hot air out and fresh air in. And the insulation included not only complete protection against heat and cold but also against mildew and dry rot.

The fireplace heat was conserved by special construction and circulated in the room instead of being wasted up the chimney.

A signal system announced meals, all over the house without noise or fuss.

AS FOR REFRIGERATION

The new refrigerators we've been seeing feature many new notions too. Such as adjustable shelves so that a water melon could

NEARLY TWO INCHES OF RAIN

Although nearly two inches of rain—the exact figure was 1.88 inches—fell between 10 a.m. yesterday and the same hours this morning, the total since the beginning of the year, at 26.46 inches, was still 13.60 inches below average.

The temperature which reached a maximum of 87 degrees yesterday, was 84 at 10 a.m. and anticipations were of warmer weather.

The Royal Observatory report stated that pressure remains highest over the Pacific to the east of the Bonins; the depression is stationary over South China and Tongking. Forecast:—South winds, moderate; cloudy, occasional rain.

FOUR MONTHS FOR AXE ATTACK

Sentence of four months' hard labour was passed on Leung Fan, 22, carpenter, when he pleaded guilty to assaulting Cheung Wing, 27, at No. 6, Shelley Street, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Defendant said complainant owed him five dollars and did not return it to him. During a quarrel, defendant attacked complainant with an axe.

SAIKUNG WHARF INCIDENT

Li Ping, a coolie, was this morning sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Mr. H. R. Butters, at the Central Magistracy, when he was found guilty of the theft of a bag of salt, valued at 60 cents, from the Salkung wharf.

Inspector Mair said that the complainant, a refugee, had 10 bags of salt, 2 bags of sugar and two boxes of milk, on the seafront, which he was taking to a sampan to be transferred to a ship for Amoy. There were other sundry goods belonging to other people near his. Suddenly ten or twelve coolies rushed up to the goods and helped themselves. Defendant was one of them, but he was arrested by a constable.

LETTERS

Chau Yu, postman No. 88, was commended by Mr. H. R. Butters at the Central Magistracy, in arresting Li Kam, unemployed, who pleaded guilty to theft of two letters from a staircase in Hill Road. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Inspector Mair said that the postman was delivering letters in that district and saw defendant acting in a suspicious manner. After depositing two letters in different letter boxes, the postman watched the defendant go to the boxes. He immediately went up to him and found a letter under his girdle and another in his pocket.

Cuba Stated Facing
Gravest Financial Crisis
In History

Havana, June 26. (Havas).—The gravest financial crisis in the history of Cuba is imminent, Parliamentary circles declared to-day.

Meanwhile, the Senate and Chamber, bowing before Colonel Batista's majority, have voted several taxes and also a law authorising President Federico Laredo Bru to issue new currency to the extent of 57,000,000 pesos, of which 37,000,000 are in paper bank notes while the rest is in silver coins.

President Laredo Bru introduced these measures in an effort to face the expenditure items not included in the Budget for the 1937-1938 fiscal year.

The new taxes voted include extra rates on the sugar industry, on the salt industry and on cinemas.

As a result of the present policy followed here, Cuban capital has become scarce and foreign capital is frozen.

Furthermore, Parliament appears totally disinterested in the situation and informed quarters interpret this as indicating a fear of the growing influence exerted by the Leftists. These parties, which are co-operating with each other with increasing efficiency, may become a decisive factor in the adoption of radical measures in the new Cuban Constitution, politicians say.

Colonel Batista has announced on several occasions that the Constituent Assembly, charged with formulating the text of a new Constitution, would meet towards the end of this year.

But nevertheless, authorised circles claim that an election of delegates cannot take place before the middle part of next year.

Parliament goes into recess soon, it is also noted, and a census of electors and various other preliminaries to general polling, have not yet been voted.

SPECIAL DAVENTRY BROADCAST TO-DAY

The BBC and the Columbia Broadcasting System of America will cooperate in a programme in memory of George Washington, to be broadcast from Daventry on Independence Day, July 4. In the English part of the programme, which will come from Sulgrave Manor in Northamptonshire, ancestral home of the Washington family, the resident steward, Mr. Frederick Carter, will describe the Manor and its surroundings.

It was in 1656 that George Washington's ancestor, Colonel John Washington, left England, and emigrated to Virginia. In later years the Manor declined in importance until it was no more than a farmhouse. In 1914, in celebration of 100 years' peace between England and the United States, the British Peace Centenary Committee bought the house and the adjoining land and presented them to the Sulgrave Institution (now the Sulgrave Manor Board). The Manor has since been restored and furnished appropriately.

The American part of the programme will be broadcast from Mount Vernon in Virginia, where Washington lived, both before he became President and after his retirement, as a gentleman planter, and generous, but exacting, lord of many slaves.

SUZANNE LENGLEN

Paris, To-day.
The condition of the famous French tennis player, Suzanne Lenglen, who is suffering from pernicious anemia was practically unchanged last evening.

The three attending doctors declared after a further thorough examination yesterday that M. Lenglen's condition is slightly improved but that the improvement is not yet sufficient to allow a further blood transfusion.—Trans-Ocean.

NEW D.B.S. HEADMASTER

Mr. Gerald Goodban, M.A., has been appointed headmaster of the Diocesan Boys' School. He is at present Assistant master at Bishop's Stortford, and is a graduate of Lincoln College, Oxford.

We are informed by Bowling Alleys that the cost of a book of tickets for ten games is $3.50 per book, and not $3 as inadvertently stated in the "Sunday Herald" yesterday. Five alleys are at the disposal of patrons.

IMPORTANT POINTS TAKEN BY INSURGENTS

Paris, To-day.
Reports of French war correspondents on the Spanish southern front stress the strategical importance of the town of Aldehuela and Mount Atalaya which were captured by insurgent troops on Saturday.

Mount Atalaya, the correspondents point out, dominates the village of Cuelba, 17 kilometres south of Teruel.

While hitherto the sector south of Teruel has been only of secondary importance, the insurgents now control all roads close to Teruel, except the road to Cuenca. The present attack south of Teruel has apparently been launched to support the operations of columns which are advancing in the region of Sarrion on the road to Sagunto.

It is expected that further fighting will develop for the possession of the Javalambre mountain massif in order to secure the flank of these columns.—Trans-Ocean.

INSURGENT CLAIMS

Bilbao, To-day.
Reports here from the Teruel front state that the column of General Varela successfully continued operations in the Puebla de Valverde sector. South of the Teruel-Sagunto road, insurgent units advanced about 12 kilometres on a 15-kilometres front in the course of Saturday and Sunday. Operations of the infantry are being effectively supported by the air force which is making the utmost use of the present favourable weather conditions.—Trans-Ocean.

GOVERNMENT ADMITS LOSS OF GROUND

Barcelona, Yesterday.
The Republican War Ministry, in a communique, reports from the eastern-front that the Republican troops completely repulsed an enemy assault on positions in Sierra Albusque on Thursday night.

Heavy fighting is in progress on the Levant front. The Republicans recaptured Hill 1821, south of Muela in the section of Puebla de Valverde, while the enemy succeeded in capturing Fuente de le Pena in the Ribesalbes sector.

In the Bechi sector, the insurgents, supported by artillery and tanks, captured the village of Bechi despite stubborn Republican resistance and occupied the villages of Celache and Correta.

Sixty persons were killed during an insurgent air raid on Badalona.—Trans-Ocean.

INSURGENTS' GAINS

Barcelona, Yesterday.
A communique admits that Insurgents captured three more positions in southwest Castellon and are guarding the highway to Valencia and Sagunto.

Further raids were also made by Insurgent planes on the Coastal towns yesterday.—Reuter.

AIRWOMEN MAKE REMARKABLE FLIGHT

Moscow, To-day.

It is officially announced that three Soviet airwomen have made a successful, nonstop flight in a single engined seaplane from Sebastopol, on the Black Sea, to Archangelsk, on the White Sea, in Northern Russia.

The names of the three airwomen are given as Lieutenants Polina Ossipenko, Vera Lomako and Marina Raskora.

They covered the distance of 2,416 kilometres in ten hours and thirtythree minutes at an average speed of 228 kilometres an hour.

The major part of the flight, namely from Gorny to Archangelsk, was carried out above a vast blanket of clouds.—Trans-Ocean.

600 TEA SETS SENT AS GIFTS BY MME. CHIANG

Playing a role in the affairs of her war-torn country to an extent where the neglect of social niceties may readily be forgiven, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, China's First Lady, has nevertheless found time to remember her former classmates of the Wellesley College, famous girls' school in the United States from which she graduated as Miss Mayling Soong 21 years ago.

This year, it will be remembered, Madame Chiang was voted honorary member of the class of 1938.

When the Empress of Russia sailed from Hong Kong for the American continent last month, a unique cargo of 600 tea sets, 600 packages of special Chinese tea and 600 Chinese National flags went with it. They were gifts from China's First Lady to her former classmates.

Of exquisite workmanship, and manufactured of the best porcelain, each tea set comprised three pieces, the cup, a cover, and a pedestal. In addition, there was a small silver spoon to accompany every cup.

The 600 flags, of 8 by 12 inches each, were of fine cloth, wrapped in a yellow paper folder wherewith the cardinal principles of the New Life Movement, started by Generalissimo and Madame Chiang four years ago, were explained in English.

With each flag, also, was sent along a copy of the Chinese National Anthem with its English translation—the flag, New Life Movement principles and the song being enclosed in an envelope on which were printed "Greetings From Mayling Soong Chiang."

Chung Fo-tsang, aged 20, was killed yesterday when he fell or jumped from the verandah of the Military Hospital, Bowen Road.

TINIEST BABY IS BURIED— NO MOURNERS

Kettering.

The ten-ounce baby, talk of millions of British homes for the three days in which he battled for life, was buried to-day in an ivy-lined grave at Desborough, Northants.

There were no mourners; no flowers.

But the vicar, the Rev. D. F. Andrews, who had christened Gerald Sismey, Britain's tiniest baby, held a burial service.

12-INCH COFFIN

The baby's mother was too ill to attend. His father had lost so much working time through the birth of the baby and his wife's illness that he could not leave work another day.

So the Front Page baby—tiniest fragment of man the English earth has ever embraced—was buried without a mourner.

And his coffin was only 12in. long.

CHINESE SCORE IMPORTANT SUCCESSSES ON YANGTSE

Valuable Ground Recovered In Counter-Attack

Advance Proceeds Close To Town Of Tien Shan

Hankow, To-day.

The Chinese authorities announced that the Chinese troops have scored noteworthy successes on both banks of the river of Yangtse which is the only front where operations of any importance are now in progress.

According to the Chinese authorities the town of Niangniangmiao has been recaptured by the Chinese after several hours of hand to hand fighting. Of 800 Japanese soldiers who had landed at the town 200 were killed in the fighting while the others retired in the direction of Matang.

On the other side of the Yangtse, north of the river, the Chinese advanced to the close vicinity of the town of Tien Shan. Another Chinese column which occupied Shuchen on Friday is now pushing forward in a southerly direction towards Tungcheng.

The Chinese stress that they have greatly improved their positions north of the Yangtse, consolidating at the same time—after the arrival of reinforcements—their positions south of the Yangtse River.

The Chinese air force was likewise extremely active. The Chinese planes continued to bombard the Japanese war and transport-ships on the Yangtse. The Japanese ships at Tungliu were attacked twice.

JAPANESE BOMBING

The Japanese air force was equally active. Japanese planes bombed the towns of Wusueh and Tienchiacheng, halfway between Kiukiang and Hankow.

According to the Chinese, the towns as well as the boom across the Yangtse River prepared near the towns, suffered only insignificant damage.—Trans-Ocean.

PENGTSSEH CLASH

Tungliu, To-day.

Japanese troops at Pengtseh who tried to break through the Chinese cordon around the city, were mowed down by machine-guns yesterday afternoon.

A Japanese battalion commander was killed in action.

Pengtseh, according to an official communique, is now completely surrounded and contact between the beleaguered Japanese troops and their comrades at Matang has been cut.

Shwangchientsien, important height on the southern outskirts of Pengtseh, and Tsienshan, another strategic height, were occupied by the Chinese as a result of yesterday's fighting.—Central News.

GRIP TIGHTENED

Kiukiang, To-day.

The latest despatch from the front reports that the Chinese grip on Pengtseh has been tightened as a result of an all-night attack from the commanding heights of Tsienshan and Shwangfengshan.

The Chinese counter-attack, the despatch states, began in the early morning of July 2, when a determined bid was made by order of the high command.

The Chinese charged the Japanese positions in armoured cars accompanied by troops using hand-grenades.

MANY KILLED

More than 400 Japanese soldiers and a battalion commander, Major Inoue, were killed and large quantities of ammunition seized, while the Chinese casualties reached 200, with Major Chiang Li-fu, a battalion commander, seriously wounded.

As a result of the encounter, the Japanese retreated into the city and the four gates are closed.

Forty Japanese vessels at Siangkow have steamed upriver to the vicinity of Pengtseh in order to render support to the landing forces.—Central News.

SHANSI FIGHTING

Chengchow, To-day.

After a long siege, Anyi and Yuncheng on the Tatung-Puchow Railway in south Shansi, were finally recaptured yesterday.

The Japanese retreated in a northerly direction, leaving a large quantity of munitions behind. Meanwhile, a report from Sian states that fighting is in progress in the outskirts of Lingfen where the Chinese are attempting to retake the city.—Central News.

JAPANESE CHECKED

Hankow, To-day.

Chinese military authorities claim the Japanese advance westwards along the Yangtse has been checked and as a consequence, it is reported that a counter attack by Chinese is being made on Pengtseh.

The attack began yesterday following the alleged recapture by Chinese troops of Liangliangmiao, about 10 miles south-west of Pengtseh on Saturday.

It is added that the forces attacking Pengtseh are making considerable progress.—Reuter.

JAPANESE DENY CLAIMS

Shanghai, To-day.

A Japanese spokesman at a press conference this morning denied the Chinese report that a Japanese aircraft carrier and two destroyers had been sunk at Anking by the Chinese.

He stated that while there were two aerial combats in the vicinity of Anking yesterday, the Japanese had brought down 8 Chinese planes, adding that 4 were downed in the first raid, while the second dogfight resulted in 2 planes being shot down by Japanese pilots, with the assistance of 2 anti-aircraft guns.

It is further claimed that all Japanese returned safely to their base.—Reuter.

Lung Ko, 45, unemployed, was this morning fined $150 or three months' hard labour by Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, at the Central Magistracy, on a charge of possessing three tael of prepared opium, at the Western Market Pier, on board s.s. Tai Ming.

Defendant was searched by a Revenue officer, who found the opium hidden in a basket of vegetables.

Shum Cheong, 40, unemployed, was fined $250 or four months' hard labour, for the possession of five tael of prepared opium, at the Tung On Wharf, in Connaught Road Central. Revenue Officer R. Stevens prosecuted.

JAPANESE PUPPETS DEBATE FUTURE

Peiping, Yesterday.

A mixed economic committee consisting of Japanese and Chinese members which had been appointed to deal with questions of trade in those parts of Northern China occupied by the Japanese held meetings on Thursday and Friday at which measures for the future economic development of Northern China were discussed.

A report subsequently issued states that the aim of the Committee is to assure equilibrium between the value of exports of raw materials from Northern China to Japan and the value of Japanese finished goods exported to that region. It is further stated that Japanese capital to the amount of 350 million yen will be invested in coal, iron and electrical industries of Northern China and the committee expresses the hope that this sum will be increased by Chinese investments. This Committee also expresses the wish that foreign capital will be attracted by prospects in Northern China. With this aim in view, the committee proposes that measures be taken to promote exportations from Northern China to foreign countries. In contradiction to this proposal, the Provisional Government has just prohibited

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

NEW LIFE

THERE wasn't any particular reason why young Phil Davis and his wife should dislike the town of Templer. Yet this was the case. For one thing they were not used to the habits and customs of small-town people. They were city bred, and hence misunderstood the kindly interest of their neighbours. Prying curiosity, they termed it.

"That Mrs. Bixby was over again this morning," Dot Davis said to her husband one night two months after they had become nicely settled in their bungalow. "She wanted to know where I had my washing done. Said she'd been curious ever since she discovered I didn't do it myself."

"Prying old buzzard," Phil muttered. "It's a blasted shame we have to put up with it. Tom Wheeler, who runs the local newspaper, was telling me

"Oh, nothing much," he replied to her question. "Bob Talbert was saying to-day that Ashfield was like a hundred other suburban towns. Same monotonous routine and dullness. The only break they get is when someone new arrives, like us."

"That's odd," Dot said slowly. "Mrs. Hooper was in to-day. She wanted to know where I had my washing done. She'd noticed she said, that I didn't do it myself."

Phil and Dot stared at each other for a moment in alarmed silence. Then suddenly, of one accord, they burst into laughter. The humour of the situation struck home.

When their mirth had subsided, Phil took his wife in his arms.

"Dot," he said, "I wonder if it's the place we live in or if it's just us. We wanted to be near a large city, and to-day that Templer was no different from any small town. They're all the same, he said. God pity the people who have to live in them," he added bitterly.

"I'm sick of it," Dot wailed. "Sick of seeing and meeting no one but gossiping old hypocrites, sick of the familiarity these people assume, once they find you're here to stay."

"But we're not here to stay," Phil cried with sudden enthusiasm. "You remember I told you how I'd been working on the head office? Trying to persuade them to transfer me to Suffolk? Well, I think it's going through. We'll not have to put up with this drab, dull existence—much longer, honey."

"I hope not," Dot cried fervently. "I can't stand it a great deal longer."

Two weeks later the long-hoped-for day arrived. Phil received notice of his transfer to the Suffolk office. Joyously the two young people packed up their belongings and said good-bye to Templer forever. They took an apartment in the suburb of Ashfield and set about the task of getting acquainted.

This wasn't particularly difficult. Mrs. Hooper, who was rather a plain looking person and who occupied an apartment on the same floor with the Davises, seemed eager to help the young folks get settled. She came in every day and made suggestions which Dot found helpful. Later she introduced her to other women who had apartments in the building.

Phil came home one evening to announce that he had joined an exclusive club, and would be out one night a week.

"It's just as well," said Dot agreeably. "Mrs. Hooper has asked me to join the Neighbourhood Bridge Union, so I'll be out, too."

They learned things from Mrs. Hooper and other inhabitants of the apartment about other people in other apartment houses close by. For example, the Ricks were considered "fast". The Browns weren't all they appeared to be, in fact they lived far beyond their income. The Balls were very pious and frowned on female cigarette smokers.

Bit by bit Phil and Dot adapted themselves to their new life. They learned with whom to associate, and whom to ignore. Gradually they settled into the usual routine. The novelty of belonging to an "exclusive" club wore off for Phil. The Neighbourhood Bridge Union turned out to be a rather gossipy affair, once you became a full-fledged member.

A month after they left Templer and its drab dullness behind, Phil arrived home one evening with a curious expression on his face. Dorothy noticed the change.

now that we're here we've found conditions pretty much the same as elsewhere."

Dot nodded soberly. "I guess, Phil, dear, it isn't the place that makes one's life drab and dull; it's the people who live in those places; it's the way you treat them and they treat you. I guess human nature is pretty much the same everywhere. It's up to the individual whether or not he or she is happy."

Phil held his wife close. "Which reminds me," he said, "that I have the prettiest and loveliest wife in the world. And from now on I'm going to begin enjoying her, without depending on the neighbours to help me."

CHOLERA
WIDESPREAD

Shanghai, June 28.

The first day of the intensive campaign against cholera launched by the Japanese Special Naval Landing Party proved very successful, the "Nippo" said yesterday.

Out of 38,128 persons who crossed the Garden Bridge, Chapoo Road Bridge and North Szechuen Road Bridge into the Hongkew area from noon to 7 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, only 138 persons failed to show anti-cholera inoculation certificates, the paper said. All of these were given inoculations free of charge at the Chinese Primary School on Boone Road.

Bluejackets assisted in the campaign in Hongkew, Yangtzepoo and other districts by stopping all passersby and asking them to show their inoculation certificates.

President Roosevelt has signed orders extending the civil service classifications to include workers in nearly all U.S. Administration agencies. The civil service commission will now be responsible for filling hundreds of Government posts with workers qualifying in rigid examinations instead of the former system of political appointments.

LARGE JAPANESE AIRCRAFT CARRIER SUNK BY CHINESE

Series Of Lightning Raids On Ships And Positions Shock Tactics In Yangtse River Succeed

Hankow, To-day.

One Japanese aircraft carrier and two destroyers are claimed to have been sunk on the Yangtse and the Japanese aerodrome at Wuhu is said to have been heavily bombed yesterday morning, according to the Chinese Aviation Headquarters' announcement.

Taking advantage of the fact that the Japanese pursuit planes were probably not patrolling the aerodrome at night, Chinese bombers took off before daybreak in the direction of Wuhu, where it is claimed they bombed the Japanese aerodrome with results unknown owing to the pitch darkness.

Later, several squadrons of bombers were reported to have taken off in an attempt to bomb a Japanese aircraft carrier near Anking. The carrier is said to have been protected by a fleet of Japanese destroyers with five Japanese pursuit planes circling above, while five pursuit planes remained on deck.

Braving most intensive anti-aircraft fire and also attacked by the Japanese pursuit planes, the Chinese bombers swooped down over the carrier and destroyers releasing six 100 pound bombs. Chinese pilots reported the Japanese aircraft carrier and two destroyer sunk. The carrier is believed to have been over 10,000 tons displacement.

IN BATTLE ZONES

Chinese forces operating along the Yangtse front in the region of Kiukiang yesterday morning, launched a counter-attack against Japanese positions to the east of Pengtseh, about 30 miles to the east of Kiukiang, according to the Chinese Military communiqué. The attacking forces are said to be making considerable progress.

On the northern front, detachments of Chinese troops are reported to have begun an attack on the Japanese positions to the southeast and northeast of Yuan-chu, on the north bank of the Yellow River. — Reuter.

FOUR RAIDS

Hankow, To-day.

In four lightning raids on Japanese fleet concentrations along the Yangtze, the Chinese air force yesterday inflicted serious damage.

During the fourth raid in the afternoon, three gunboats were seen gradually to sink.

The attack, which took place in the vicinity of Siangkow, was participated in by an undisclosed number of Chinese planes, comprising several squadrons. At the time of the bombardment, Japanese planes took to the air but were challenged and scattered by swift Chinese pursuits.

Shortly after a raid on Wuhu aerodrome, another squadron attacked the Japanese positions at Matang and strafed the Japanese troops at a low altitude with devastating results. Chinese raiders then attacked naval vessels on the river. Direct hits were scored on one large ship and another small gunboat, which were seen limping dangerously downstream.—Central News.

JAPANESE TRANSPORT SUNK

Tsingyang, To-day.

It is now ascertained that the large Japanese vessel which was sunk by the Chinese air force in the vicinity of Fengku was a transport and not a small aircraft carrier as at first suspected.—Central News.

ADMIRAL A CASUALTY?

Nanchang, To-day.

It is being rumoured here that during the Chinese air raid on Japanese fleet on the Yangtze yesterday the Japanese naval commander, Admiral Nagano, was injured and taken to a hospital at Anking for treatment.—Central News.

JAPANESE ASK FOR RELIEF

Shanghai, June 28.

Representatives of local Japanese residents who are seeking an increase in the allotment of rehabilitation funds to Shanghai called on Japanese officials on Friday with a request that they refer the matter to the Tokyo authorities, the "Nippo" said yesterday.

Copies of a resolution adopted at a first general meeting of Japanese seeking an increased rehabilitation grant of Y.12,000,000 were handed to officials of the Consulate-General, Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the army and navy. The calls were made by Mr. Yukichi Hayashi, Mr. Hikoji Ichihashi and Mr. Shohai Kosegi. They asked the officials to convey the appeal to the Foreign Office and the Ministries of War, Navy and Finance.

RAGNHILD HVEGER ESTABLISHES TWO NEW WORLD MARKS

Copenhagen, To-day.
Miss Ragnhild Hveger, of Denmark, who holds the majority of world swimming records for women, yesterday established two new world marks when she swam the one mile free style in 23 mins. 11.8-10 secs., to lower Miss Helena Madison's eight year old mark by 1 min. 23.1-10 secs.

During the same swim she also lowered the mark for the 1,500 metres free style, clocking 21 mins. 45.7-10 secs. to beat the previous best mark of Fro. G. Fredericksen (Denmark) by 51 secs. The former record was set up in 1928.—Reuter.

JAPANESE PILOT TAKEN ALIVE

Nanchang, To-day.

A Japanese pilot, Second Lieut. Ogasawara, who was captured alive near the Poyang Lake on June 28, has been brought here.

The pilot took part in the Japanese air raid over Nanchang that day. His plane was shot down by Chinese machines during a dogfight. He managed to bailed out in a parachute and landed on an isle in the Poyang Lake.—Central News.

Ankara, To-day.

An official statement issued yesterday confirms that negotiations between France and Turkey regarding the Sanjak Treaty of May, 1937, have been brought to a successful conclusion and that a new Franco-Turkish Agreement was signed at Antioch at eight o'clock on Sunday morning.

It is, moreover, announced that the negotiations which were conducted here yesterday between the Turkish Foreign Minister, Rushdi Aras, and the French Minister to Turkey, M. Pongot, concerning a Franco-Turkish Amity Pact and the prolongation of the "good neighbourship pact," proceeded smoothly.—Trans-Ocean.

"What Can I Do For Him?"

Every Woman Who Has An Over-worked, Worried, Run-Down Husband Should Have Him Try

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The finest tonic for every man who has become over-worked, nervous, enfeebled, run-down, through over-work, business worries, or other cause, is a good long holiday—preferably on the sea—where he can have complete change of air, food, and environment. But unfortunately it is not always possible—especially here in the Far East—to get away from the daily round. Responsibilities are too great, leave-of-absence is not to be had for the mere asking, sea trips are expensive and hardly to be thought of these hard times.

What then is to be done? The next best thing is to take a good blood and nerve tonic, and the best of all tonics is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For over half a century these world-famous pills have been restoring health and strength to weak, nerve-racked, despairing men—and women too. Their first effect is to revive lost appetite. Then they aid digestion, build up the nerves, restore the blessing of sound, invigorating sleep, and the good rich, red blood they make at every dose carries new nourishment, health and strength throughout the whole system. Innumerable sufferers have built-up and revitalized themselves through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in this way. There is nothing better for rheumatic sufferers, because they clear the blood of the poisons which are rheumatism's cause. Women all over the world value them too as a specific for the backpains, headaches and other miseries which afflict so many of their sex between maidenhood and middle age.

A NEW WAY TO PAY —OLD DEBTS

The curious relations between the British Government and Mexico have occupied a great deal more attention during recent weeks in the United States than they have in England. For one thing, Mexico is a next-door neighbour, and Mexican anarchy is something to be feared; for another, the Americans are not without a sense of humour. When the British Government preached a lofty sermon to Mexico on its "attitude towards Government indebtedness generally" and complained because of four months' delay in the payment of a debt instalment of £20,000 American comment was ironical; it was pointed out that a British Government that can go debt-collecting with a big stick for £20,000 evades paying anything of the £1,000,000,000 she owes the United States. The sequel is the unofficial suggestion, which the New York correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian" reports is being widely advanced in the United States, that the war debt should be brought in to settle the British quarrel with Mexico. Why, it is ingeniously asked, should not the United States transfer some of the war debt to Mexico and let the British Government be forgiven an amount corresponding to that which the British oil companies are claiming from Mexico? Of course, money would have to pass somewhere, but it would be the British Government that would have to compensate the British oil companies for the Mexican expropriation of their properties. The idea is full of poetic malice, but it is hard to assert that the British Government by the tone of its behaviour towards Mexico has not invited such a cruel rejoinder. Indeed, the more that is known about the dangers of the internal situa-

ADVERSARIA

SINCE to-day is the "Fourth of July" and the undersigned has been celebrating such a date for numerous years—for reasons that American school children are undoubtedly familiar, but which we must confess we are somewhat vague—'tis fitting and proper that a cannon-cracker or two be set off before the day is complete. Resultant, no doubt, in a casualty case of interest only to the nearest first-aid station.

FOLLOWING in the wake of to-day's "Independence" celebration in America, the news dispatches will in all probability devote numerous lines to those killed, maimed and disfigured while engaged in the quaint custom of playing with fireworks, not to mention the motor-car accidents, the people drowned and other various tragedies occasioned by this day of days in America. Quite a costly price to pay for one day's celebration or is it not?

A MAN is indeed ignorant if ignorant of the fact that he is ignorant.

DYING AT 23, Marie Bashkirtsey, Russian author, left a clause in her will saying: "I die absolutely pure in heart, mind and body. I believe I never had thoughts that were base, mercenary or depraved." Apparently "Marie" paid no attention to the gag: "Only the good die young."

THE MAGAZINE "Fact" says:

"Dust is as dangerous as gunpowder. If fine particles are distributed in air in certain proportions and touched by a spark, they will ignite spontaneously and cause a blast which has, at times, wrecked factories."

Peiping "guerillas" might take notice!

EDITORIAL clipping:

"The boom now being enjoyed by the aircraft manufacturing industry is one of the bright spots in the world's economic picture."—Shanghai's China Press.
The terms "booms" and "aircraft" should conjure up visions anything but bright in the minds of Shanghaianders.

LAMENTATIONS:

"Since I became an eligible bachelor many women from 15 to 70 have been simply insisting that they bless me with another marriage. I may have to marry again to get peace."—Ely Culbertson, bridge expert.
Somehow or other, we can't seem to work up much of a spirit of sympathy at the dilemma of Mr. Culbertson. Maybe it is just because we are not interested in bridge.

CHOLERA BREAKS OUT IN FLOOD AREA

Missionaries Report Hundreds Of Deaths

SOVIET TO BUILD BIG NAVY

Moscow, To-day.
That the Soviet must build a Navy to surpass Britain's was the keynote of a speech by President Kalinin at Leningrad. Kalinin exhorted Soviet shipbuilders to overtake the foremost capitalist sea Powers because "if you live among wolves you must bay like a wolf."
It is revealed that Soviet is launching the largest naval programme in the country's history.—Reuter.

SWATOW GIVEN HOLIDAY FROM RAIDERS

SWATOW, TO-DAY.
SWATOW WAS GIVEN A "REST" YESTERDAY. NO JAPANESE PLANES APPEARED THROUGHOUT THE DAY AND THE SHELLING OF THE COAST BY JAPANESE SHIPS WAS CONFINED TO AREAS SOUTH, AND OPPOSITE NAMOA ISLAND.

Three Japanese transports arrived off Namoa Island yesterday and landed large quantities of war materials and food, besides a considerable amount of construction material for the aerodrome and barracks which Japanese sappers are now engaged in building.

An aircraft-carrier is now cruising just outside the harbour.

Refugees are still pouring out by the hundreds. — Our Own Correspondent.

VIOLENT STORM CREATES HAVOC IN COLOMBO

Colombo, To-day.

Fierce monsoon storms left a trail of death and destruction throughout Ceylon yesterday with swollen rivers carrying away houses and property.

A schooner with 36 persons aboard was swept out to sea at Colombo, but all were finally saved by Customs launches in a dramatic struggle against the elements. — Reuter.

Canton, To-day.

Another batch of 56 war waifs has been taken in by the local Child Welfare Association. They will shortly be sent to the association's relief camp at Kowloon.—Central News.

Foreign Flying Trip Over The Entire Area

Peiping, To-day.

Foreigners flying over the flooded sections of Honan, state that the Yellow River waters are still flowing at a tremendous rate through the breaches in the dykes that the Japanese are now making no further attempt to repair.

It seems inevitable that the flood will run until the river subsides in October.

The water has reached Kaifeng's protecting dykes on all sides, but the city is not in danger at the present time.

Cholera has broken out among the refugees to the north-west of Kaifeng and foreign missionaries are reporting hundreds of deaths.

The missionaries also criticise the Japanese troops in Kaifeng for excesses.—Reuter.

PLANE TRIP

Peiping, To-day.

Several foreign journalists made a flight yesterday across the Yellow River bridge at Tsinanfu, which has been reconstructed by the Japanese, and then, following the course of the Yellow River, reached the inundated area and the town of Kaifeng.

From Kaifeng, the journalists returned to Peiping, by plane via Changde late last night.

The journalists declared on their return here that below Kaifeng there is practically no traffic on the river. The water appears to be extraordinarily low. More than nine-tenths of the water of the Yellow River is pouring through two large breached in the dykes.

The largest breach is at Tutan and the next largest, further west, at Chinshuichen.

JAPANESE CLAIM

Major-General Tessima, who commanded the Japanese vanguard at Chungmou, halfway between Kaifeng and Chengchow, declared that he succeeded in reaching Kaifeng from Chungmou without losing a single man or gun when the floods necessitated the withdrawal of his troops.

Japanese declare that the stories of a huge number of drowned people were grossly exaggerated but they agree that material damage in the inundated districts is very considerable.

There appears to be a danger of a cholera epidemic, however. According to a report received at Kaifeng, a serious outbreak of cholera has occurred at Tungchangchen, south of the Hoangho dyke in the inundated area. The area affected has a population of about 5,000. There is hardly a family in this district which has not lost a member by death.

NEW RIVER BED?

The foreign journalists, who followed floods by plane for some 60 kilometres in a southern direction observed that the two streams issuing through the breaches in the dykes converge finally and are beginning to form a new riverbed which is between 400 and 2,000 metres wide.

They regard it as probable that this new bed will become the permanent course of the Yellow River which will meet the Hwai River at Pengpu and then distribute its waters partly in the the Hwai Lake and partly into the Imperial Canal and Yangtze River.—Trans-Ocean.

KWEICHOW FLOODS

Kweiyang, To-day.

Owing to the onrush of mountain freshets, five districts in Kweichow, namely Yungkiang, Chingping, Tankiang, Hsiakiang, and Patsai, have been flooded, causing tremendous property damage.—Central News.

The American Consul and Community are At Home at the American Club between 11.30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to-day in celebration of Independence Day, July Fourth.

CHINESE FRUSTRATE SHANSI ATTACK

KIANGHSIEN, SHANSI, TO-DAY.

JAPANESE EFFORTS TO REGAIN LOST GROUND IN SOUTH SHANSI RECEIVED A SERIOUS SETBACK TO THE EAST OF YUANKU ON THE HONAN-SHANSI BORDER WHEN A PITCHED BATTLE RESULTED IN THE WIPING OUT OF A WHOLE REGIMENT OF THE SHIMOHARA DIVISION YESTERDAY.

Heavy fighting of unparalleled violence raged throughout yesterday for twenty continuous hours from early morning till midnight along an extended line touching Putsang, Kweiping, Chiafang, Paowangchwang and other points.

Over a dozen times the forces were locked in a grim bayonet and hand-to-hand struggle.

The Chinese finally broke through the Japanese lines at Chiafang and Paoyuchwang and practically wiped out the 117th Regiment under Lie-General Shimohara.

In the afternoon, the Japanese forces, reinforced, and assisted by a dozen heavy artillery, and many planes, directed a terrific bombardment on the Chinese positions at Nanyangchuan and Shwangmiao. Fighting was still raging last evening.

It is estimated during the furious barrage on Nanyangchuan alone, the Japanese let loose at least over 1,000 shells.—Central News.

Flemish Veterans Stage Activist Demonstration

Ghent, To-day.

No fewer than 18,000 Flemings took part in a demonstration staged by the Flemish war veterans here on Sunday as a protest against the arrest of a Flemish Activist by the name of Grammens, who was arrested by the authorities for destroying street name plates in the French language.

The demonstrators who, moreover, demanded a general amnesty for all Flemish Activists carried huge posters with such slogans as "Grammens Must Be Released."

"We Demand An Amnesty" and others which advocated the introduction of the Flemish language as the only official language in Flanders.

In the afternoon, the traditional Flemish Singers Festival was held in St. Peter's Square. No fewer than 35,000 people took part in this year's festival which was an even pronouncedly Flemish nationalist affair than last year's festival. — Trans-Ocean.

LUSHKOV AFFAIR LEADS TO FAR EAST ARRESTS

Warsaw, To-day.

"Gazetta Polska" reports from Moscow several arrests have been made at Habarovsk in the Far East Province of the Soviet Union in connection with the flight of General Lushkov, member of the Peace Preservation Commission and Chief of the Commissariat for Home Affairs in the Far East, who, as announced by the Japanese War Office, crossed the Soviet-Manchukuo frontier at Hungchun last week.

Three special delegates of the G.P.U. chief, M. Ueshov, arrived at Habarovsk for an enquiry into Lushkov's sensational flight.

Officials, army officers and party functionaries who have been arrested in connection with the affair will be sent to Moscow.

Polish papers also draw attention to the fact that the name of Marshal Budjenny does not appear among the names of 66 officers elected to the Supreme Council of the Soviet Republic.

The papers regard the omission as confirmation of rumours prevalent in Moscow that Marshal Budjenny's fall is imminent. — Trans-Ocean.

BRITISH BID FOR NEW TIES IN BALKANS

London, To-day.

The possibility of strengthening Britain's economic and financial ties with the Balkans is being considered in London.

An inter-departmental Committee, composed of representatives from the Treasury, the Board of Trade and the Foreign Office, have already held one meeting, examining the problems of increasing purchases of Balkan products and extending export credits to the Balkan States. — Reuter.

NEW L.N.E.R. SPEED RECORD

London, To-day.

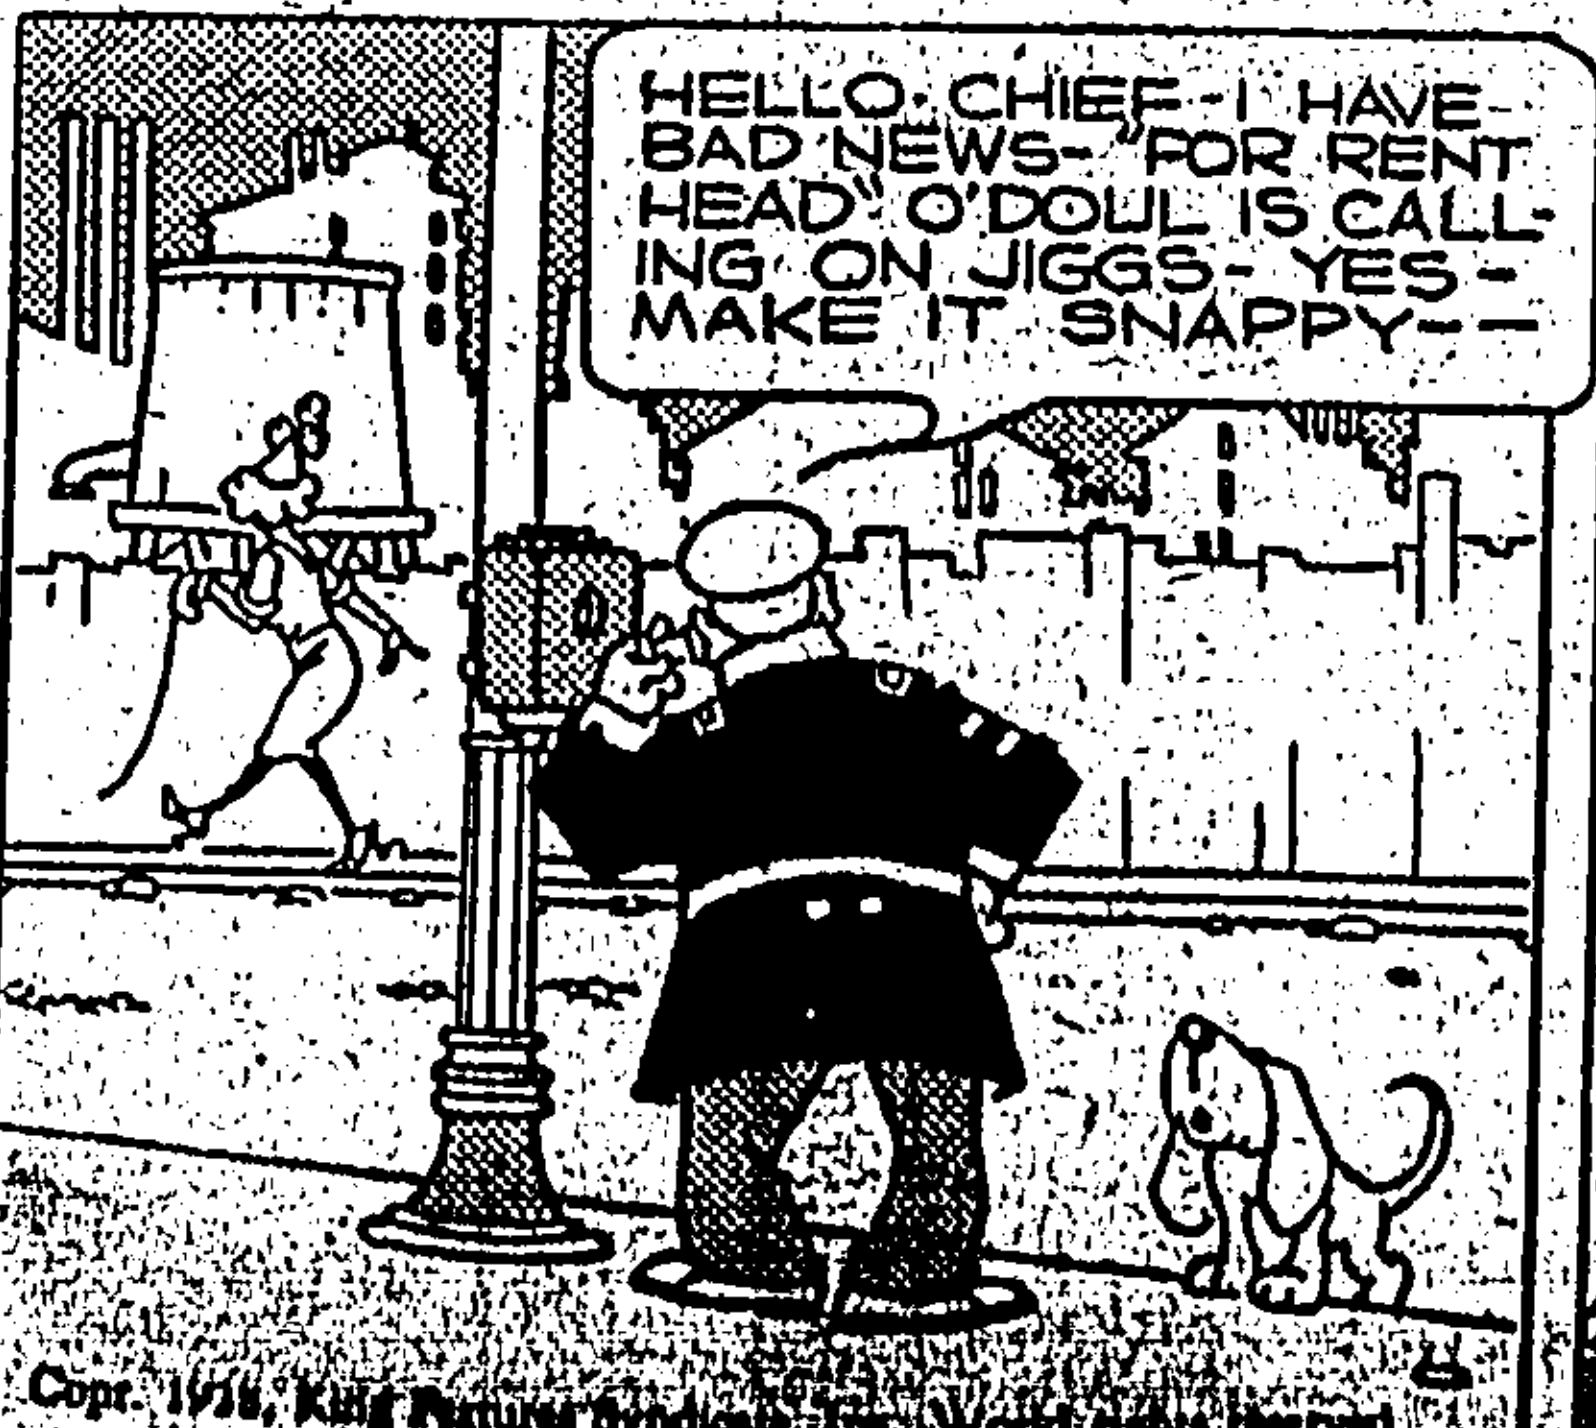

A new British railway speed record has been achieved by the L.N.E.R. "stream-lined" express "Mallard" when it reached 125 miles an hour between Grantham and Peterborough for 106 yards.

Earlier in the run a sustained speed of 120 miles hourly for three miles was reached. The previous record was 114 miles per hour. — Reuter.

Sentence of four months' hard labour was to-day passed on Chan Tick-ching, when he was convicted of snatching a gold earring from a woman in Des Voeux Road Central near Hillier Street.

GERMANY'S AMATEUR BOXING TRIUMPH

England Beaten
10 Points To 6

Berlin, To-day.

The German Amateur Boxing team gained its biggest triumph of the year by winning its international encounter with England, yesterday, by 10 points to 6. The encounter was originally scheduled for Saturday evening, but rain caused the postponement until Sunday.

A crowd of 20,000 spectators witnessed the bouts which were fought out in the open air Dietrich Eckart stage, in the Olympia Stadium, in Berlin.

In the flyweight event, Russel (Gt. B.) beat Obermaier (Germany) to give England an early lead, but Jack Pottinger (Gt. B.) was outpointed in the Bantam weight event by Wilke (Germany). The featherweight bout displayed the clear cut superiority of Gallie (Gt. B.) over the former Austrian champion, Jaro, thus restoring England's lead.

The German Olympic champion Nuernberg succeeded in knocking out Powell (Gt. B.) in the First Round, but once again England went ahead when Fluss was outpointed in the welterweight.

This lead, however, proved insufficient to make good Germany's marked superiority in the heavier events, all three of which were claimed by the German boxers.

Baumgarten beat Harrington (Gt. B.) Vogt outpointed Brown (Gt. B.) and Runge defeated Preston (Gt. B.).—Trans-Ocean.

K.C.C. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

B. Soltan and R. S. Capell (—15) beat G. C. Burnett and F. A. Broadbridge (—30) by 6—4, 12—10 yesterday at the K.C.C. to enter the Second Round of the Kowloon Cricket Club Men's Handicap Lawn Tennis Tournament. Soltan was the most impressive player on view.

13 PLAYERS FOR THIRD TEST MATCH

Four Newcomers:
Gibb Replaces
Ames

London, To-day.
The following are the 13 players from whom the England eleven to meet the Australians in the Third Test at Manchester, commencing on July 8, will be selected:

W. R. Hammond (Gloucester) (Capt.)
P. A. Gibb (Cambridge and Yorkshire)
H. Verity (Yorkshire)
L. Hutton (Yorkshire)
T. F. Smailes (Yorkshire)
E. Paynter (Lancashire)

C. J. Barnett (Gloucester)
T. W. Goddard (Gloucester).
—Reuter.

FOUR NEWCOMERS

Four new names appear in the 13 from whom the England team for the Third Test which starts at Manchester on July 8, will be selected.

They are:

P. A. Gibb (Cambridge and Yorkshire).
T. F. Smailes (Yorkshire).
M. S. Nichols (Essex) and
T. W. Goddard (Gloucester).
These players replace L. E. G. Ames, K. Farnes, A. W. Wellard and R. A. Sinfield.

Wicket-keeper Ames injured a finger in the last test and a fear was expressed at the time that he would not be able to play in the next Test. Gibb, the young, Cambridge undergraduate, is the logical choice as his successor. He has batted extremely well in most of his games this season, having already proved his mettle against the Tourists' attack. He keeps for Cambridge.

BOWLERS

The other three men are chiefly noted for their bowling ability, although Nichols can also be classed as a useful bat. Smailes cannot be said to have met with any great success last season with his swingers, alternated with off breaks, but this year has bowled consistently well.

Tom Goddard, of Gloucester, is bracketed with J. C. Clay, the Glamorgan amateur, as the finest off-break bowler in England. Last season he played against the New Zealanders and in the Second Test, it was his fine bowling as much as anything else that gave England victory.

W. R. Hammond has again been elected captain. Regarding his fitness, Sir Pelham Warner, stated that Hammond was making splendid progress from the injuries he sustained in the last test, at Lord's, and is almost certain to play.

He is still undergoing treatment for his injured leg, however, and will leave for London to-day or to-morrow, for further treatment. — Reuter.

SATURDAY'S SOLUTION

Bradman Out, McCabe Out, An Historic Catch

(Exclusive To "China Mail"—By Air Mail)

C. B. Fry, internationally-known authority on cricket, is writing a series of commentaries on the five Test Matches between England and Australia exclusively for the "China Mail" and "Sunday Herald."

We publish below Fry's account of the second day's play at Lord's. The third and fourth day's play will be contained in all editions of the "China Mail" in a few days time. The first day's play was published in yesterday's issues of the "Sunday Herald."

C. B. FRY SAYS--

England commenced their second day's play with 409 runs for 5 wickets on the board, Hammond being 210 and Ames 50 when England resumed their innings.

Lord's Ground, June 25.
Have you ever seen the inside of an inverted ant heap. That is Lord's cricket ground to-day.

There are clouds overhead, but also permeating sunshine. To-day it will not rain because "Fanny" Walden, the umpire out there, says he knows by his left wrist, which is a sure rain gauge, and does not hurt to-day.

Walden tells me that both Charles Barnett and Edrich hit quite hard the balls from McCormick which evicted them. Charles hit his on to his thigh, and it cannoned up to short leg. Edrich cut his long hop down into his wicket.

Yes, and I wish people would not write and talk of the failure of Hut-ton, Edrich and Compton. These successes, and yesterday was a success, should be welcomed as the work of the whole team. Someone is sure to get out in any particular match. What about the consummate Walter Hammond at Nottingham. He made only a few.

Stick to your team and tell them you have confidence in them, one and all. No member of a team fails when the team as a whole succeeds.

An Even Mind

Nor, mind you, is this match over yet awhile. It is a four days' match; Australia contains a lot of runs, of all sorts. In success, above all, we should keep an even mind.

Walter Hammond and Leslie Ames are now just where they can gain us a winning position. We hope they will. But the wicket has if anything improved, and Edward Paynter tells me he believes it will last. Good for heaps of runs, were his words.

Clifford Bax tells me that yesterday Walter Hammond scored 70 before lunch, 70 before tea and 70 before dinner. A most symmetrical player; I hope he maintains his symmetry till tea time this afternoon.

Australia takes the field; and we may well recall how grand a show of fielding Australia gave us yesterday. Nothing dramatises a match as does fielding that is superb.

Poise That Counts

Watch Walter Hammond walk to the wicket amid resounding cheers, and note one reason why he plays so beautifully; every time his foot takes the ground his weight is precisely over it, and he is poised for his next stride. No feature counts more than poise.

Poise explains that lovely off-drive he has just made off McCabe, which brings him to face O'Reilly from the pavilion end. And so we are into the game again.

Our heroes of yesterday are shaping as though there had been no interval.

You at Lord's see now why I class Leslie Ames as one of our three best England batsmen. Study his calm facility, impeccable style, and precise timing. A model batsman.

Now after four overs he has to face McCormick. O'Reilly is off. But the first fast over produced from Leslie a cut of surgical exactness. No other incident.

Topped Paynter's

At 431 there is applause, probably for some equation of a statistical curve.

No; I have it; Walter has topped Paynter's 216 at Nottingham.

He follows, does Walter, with an insolent cut off his chest; and next ball McCormick replies by finding Walter's windpipe with a bumper. No; it is his biceps. And Walter is feeling the blow; he is testing his arm; he has to take a pause.

But he soon resumes with unabated command of all his elegant strokes.

At noon the blackboard shows 450 runs, white and bold. It was as straight a drive as you could get with a spirit level by Walter that sent up the figure.

And I spy Charles Barnett in the England balcony showing Edward Paynter how the stroke is done. Our boys on the balcony look a happy band of brothers.

Then the boys see an unexpected sight. Walter plays on to his wicket a straight ball from McCormick. Walter Hammond has made 240 perfect runs when runs were badly wanted.

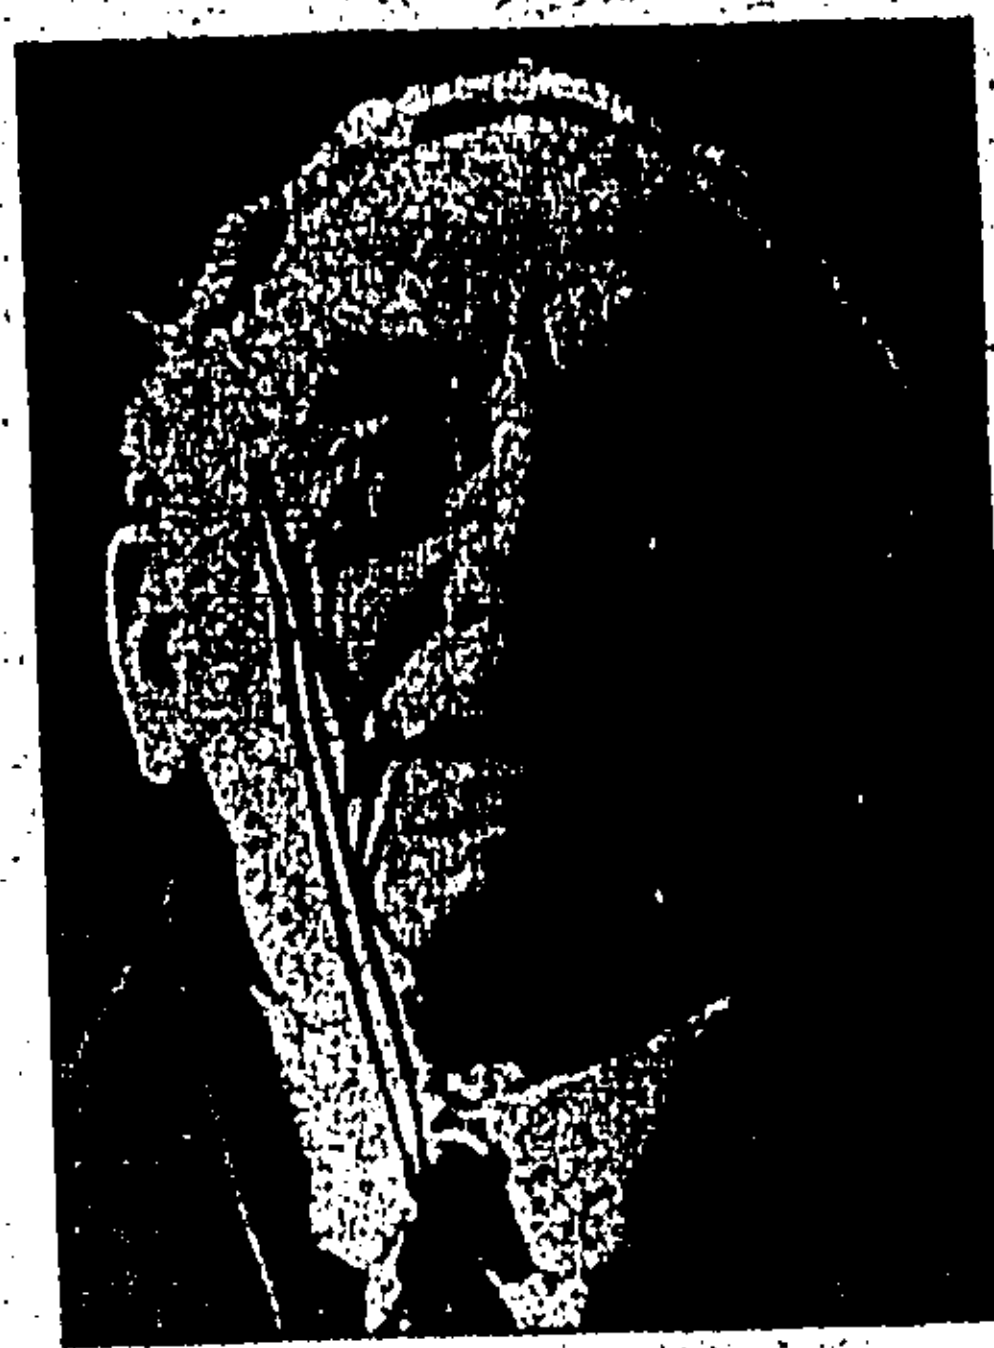

As he passes in pleasant dignity into the historic pavilion, every member in the pavilion stands up.

Verity — The Heir!

It is as though a living king has handed on his sceptre to a chosen heir. The heir is Verity, who at once shows us how a water diviner works his wand. And he nearly works a tiny catch to short-leg.

Note that McCormick has taken the wickets of our first four batsmen. He is bowling with redoubled vigour now he has sent away our champion.

Oh! Pretty. Hedley Verity has

C. B. FRY

cracked his duck's egg. A divining stroke, vaguely in the direction where midon is not. And, mind you, Hedley is a useful and annoying batsman, who ere now has walked in No. 1 for England.

Mild Catastrophe

Hedley is not now using a divining-rod; he is using a giant pen. He can write.

He has to deal with O'Reilly now. Hedley is not a match for the Tiger, who eats his wicket with a bailer.

This mild catastrophe finds seven wickets down for 472 runs, Ames not out '77; not so bad.

Enter Wellard. A boundary off the inner edge to leg. A skyscraper off O'Reilly to deep mid-on. McCormick a successful basket. Exit Wellard. Bruce Harris says he is not a slogger. He slogged to-day. Total 476 for 8.

You will be sorry to hear that yesterday Walter Hammond, in turning when sent back for a call, sprained his side. How much we do not know. He does not reveal accidental disabilities; he just goes on.

Cracking The "Tiger"

The question arises whether Leslie Ames will hurry up successfully enough to score a hundred before the innings is ended. He deserves it. He is at present cracking Tiger O'Reilly with straight drives, some intercepted, some not.

The O'Reilly is bowling away and bowling away. He figures in the throes of delivery as a giant starfish of waving arms and legs. What a bowler!

The answer about Leslie Ames is "no." When he had reached 83 he tried his cute late cut at Xavier. His following blade was just a fraction away, and he gave a little catch to short slip.

A beautifully played innings this 83, and I would as soon back Ames as anyone for a century in the third Test match. Total 485 for 9.

Wright and Kenneth Farnes are making immensely merry.

The Don has all but caught a miraculous catch at deep mid-off. He ran after a ball that was yards out of reach, and handled it twice as though it were an escaping bird.

The end comes at 12.50, with 494 to our credit, when Xavier bowls young Wright, who was hitting to leg.

Well, it is a great big score for Lord's.

Now our bowlers are urgently required to scintillate.

Wicket Still Sound

The summary of the situation resides in the state of the wicket. It appears to be still quite sound and true. We have no reason to suppose that we can scuttle out a strong batting side such as opposes us for a small score. In the shoes of Australia we ourselves should expect to achieve a big bold answer to the runs now against them.

In our favour is the old adage that a run on the board is worth two in the pavilion.

The Australian bowlers and fielders have stood up well to a severe outting; they have never relaxed; they have never relapsed into the lower gears of effort. A good show.

Please remember that these Australians are familiar with high figures. To them such a total as ours appears a normal project.

We start with Kenneth Farnes (pavilion) and a close-up pair of catchers under the lee of Fingleton's left hip. On the other edge of the bat two slips and a deep gully.

Wellard is on the end to Billy Brown. The field is orthodox, except for a close-up gully.

Lunch For None

Twenty-five minutes to go before the interval. We have the usual Fingleton and Brown.

I wish our fast bowlers would bowl at Brown's off-stump at first, and at Fingleton's off-stump at first. Both are clever manipulators of the ball that veers towards their legs.

At 1.20 the total is 16, equally divided.

Neither of our fast bowlers as yet looks like trouble for Australia; the wicket is too clean. But we know that Farnes takes time to work up his swing, and to clinch his precision of length.

Wellard I would prefer from the pavilion end.

The prospects are that our leg break bowler Wright will prove our best card. The two hours after lunch will be a vital period. They will shape the game.

Wright bowls his first over just before lunch, in vain—so far. Lunch—26 for no wicket.

Wright At Work

After the refreshments we soon have Wright at work. He is bowling from the Nursery end, with, as they say, the slope of the ground in favour of his leg break; but the slope is an illusion, the turf of the pitch is quite flat.

Farnes continues from the Pavilion end; he is brewing up. He is faster than this morning. He sends in a fast good-length ball which inflicts something like a kidney punch on gentle William Brown.

Quite unintended.

The Australian pair of initiates seem confident. They are making their strokes without hesitation. Lack of confidence is not an Australian trait; No. 11 usually fancies himself for a score. Why not? A bowler ought to know all about batting.

The first 50 Australian runs have been collected without pain in exactly 40 minutes.

I cannot say our bowling has presented any apparent quality of peril, and I am rather afraid the wicket is not going to assist us. Occasionally Farnes, now bowling much faster, causes the ball to bounce, but not enough to matter.

Wright is steady enough, but not as springy from the pitch as I have seen him.

268 ENTRIES FOR BRITISH Open Golf Title

29 Overseas Challengers: Five From U.S.A.

TO-DAY'S QUALIFYING ROUND

(By AIR MAIL)

ENTRIES to the number of 268 will again make a great golf parade of the Open Championship which is to be played on the Royal St. George's course, Sandwich, beginning Monday, July 4, (to-day) with qualifying rounds there and on Prince's Course to-day and to-morrow (July 5). The Championship proper will start on Wednesday, July 6.

The official reminder of the closing date did not suggest such a big-scale mobilisation for the title; rather, on the contrary, did it indicate an abnormally low entry, but hint or S O S, however the R. and A. notice may be interpreted, it has been effective. The number is only ten short of last year's muster at Carnoustie, though 44 fewer than when the event was held on the same course four years ago.

But as compared with last year and other years the United States challenge is but a faint shadow of what it has been, and the probability is that Henry Cotton, who will defend his title, will find his sternest opposition from home golf with Bobby Locke, the young South African prodigy, as the strongest outside challenger.

There are three American professional competitors in the list, Gene Sarazen, now an old-timer in this country; Lawson Little, twice winner of our Amateur Championship; and Victor Ghezzi who, though a newcomer, has a considerable tournament background in his own country. Two amateur entries have also been received from the States, viz., Ross Thompson and Page Hufty.

ALLISS ABSENT THROUGH MISTAKE

The drop in American interest is natural as compared with last season when their official Ryder Cup team, visitors every four years, were here, and an additional factor is the proximity of the two leading American events, the Open Championship which finished quite recently, and the P.G.A. Championship which is now due. Sarazen stated some little time ago that he would not take part in the P.G.A. event.

British golf will unfortunately be without Percy Alliss, whose absence from the draw has created something of a sensation in view of his notable success in the $1000 League Tournament at Sandy Lodge.

Alliss is the victim of a mistake for which he quite frankly blames himself. He explained the matter in an interview at his home in Leeds. "When I left home to play at Sandy Lodge," he stated, "I was under the impression that I had sent in my entry, and when discovered my oversight I found that it was too late to enter. It was a shock to me to find that I would be unable to play at Sandwich, but it is entirely my own fault."

LOCKE AND BREWS

The overseas entry is 29 strong, there being, in addition to the Americans, five entrants from France, four each from Australia, Belgium, and South Africa, two from Holland, and one each from Egypt, Malaya, Panama, Jamaica, and Germany. Of these, the most likely challenger is, as has been said, Locke, who is accompanied by Syd Brews, who was runner-up to Cotton in his phenomenal break-through four years ago. Locke, who has been leading amateur in the Open in the past two years, now competes as professional.

With Cotton, there are eight former holders, including those veterans, James Braid, Sandy Herd, George Duncan, and Ted Ray. Arthur Havers, Alfred Perry, Alfred Padgham, and Gene Sarazen are the other previous holders. Archie Compston will be an absentee.

In addition to the ex-champions, there is a numerous array of home golfers, including all the leading players.

HECTOR THOMSON'S CHANCE

Sixty-nine amateurs have sent in their names, and, as Hector Thomson is among them, he will create interesting speculation in view of his brilliant form at Troon and St. Andrews recently.

drew M'Nair, A. W. Whyte, Eri Watson, and Ian Lyle. In the professional ranks are J. H. Ballingall, the new Scottish champion; W. M. Hastings, Sandy Herd, James Braid, Jack M'Lean, Alan Dailey, Jas. M'Dowall, Tom Fernie, George Hutton, D. McCulloch, T. B. Haliburton, Tom Dobson, James Adams, J. J. Frasers, and Gordon Dorrward, and others.

The amateurs will also include such leading lights as James Bruen, Leonard Crawley, and J. J. F. Pennink.

CHANGED CONDITIONS

Prize-money to the total of £500 will be disbursed among professionals. The conditions have undergone a change since last year. The 130 competitors returning, the lowest aggregate scores in the qualifying rounds will compete in the championship proper. Not more than 130 can qualify, and in the event of a tie or ties for the last place the competitors who tie will not be eligible, and the number to qualify will be reduced accordingly. The field will be reduced to 40 on the Thursday evening, and the elimination of all tieing for last place also applies at that stage. The field for the last two rounds on the Friday may thus be an unusually small one.

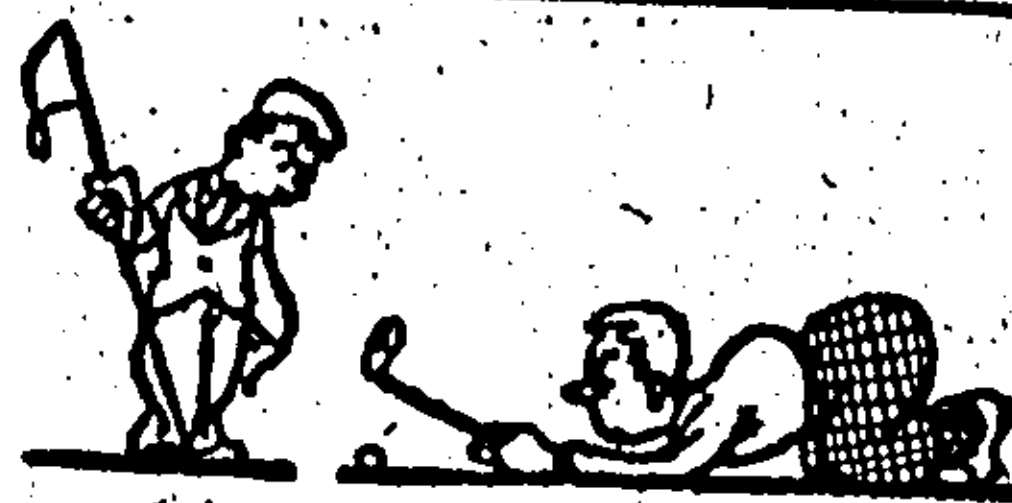

Originally the Championship was fixed to take place along the coast at the Royal Cinque Ports Club at Deal, but damage to that course, caused by drought and inundation from the sea compelled a transfer of the event, and Sandwich was chosen as the most convenient deputy.

The draw is as follows:—

Test Crowd Tell Don: "Have A Go Yourself"

First Test Match, at Trent Bridge, Nottingham.

England 422 for four wickets (Barnett 126, Hutton 100).

Twenty-five thousand people yesterday saw England's new opening pair of Test batsmen—young Barnett and younger Hutton—make a record knock of 210 runs and baffle Australia's bowlers and fielders.

Then four wickets fell for 62 runs, but youngest Compton and almost-veteran Paynter put on 141 runs without further loss.

England are now 3 runs short of the highest innings score against Australia at Trent Bridge.

Bradman switched his five bowlers—McCormick, O'Reilly, Fleetwood-Smith, Ward and McCabe—often and with every change the barrackers called delightedly, "Have a go yourself, Don."

For the first time the score card at Nottingham shows no distinction between amateurs and professionals. All are given their full initials.

Mr. G. S. Wood, Daily Express weather expert and honorary adviser to the Australian team, has sent them this forecast for to-day—"Rain, unlikely overnight, day mainly fine, with sunny periods; moderate north-west wind."

Horton Smith To Marry Heiress

Horton Smith, American Ryder Cup golfer, is to be married in the autumn to an American heiress, Miss Barbara Bourne.

The couple met through Horton

Smith's acquaintance with his fiancée's father. Mr. Bourne played golf frequently with Bobby Jones and Smith. After his marriage Horton Smith will stick to golf. "It's the only kind of business I know," he says.

C. B. FRY'S TEST COMMENTARY

Wellard has his first try from the Pavilion end. He reminds me of Maurice Tate till he lets go the ball; after that the resemblance fades. Somehow I do not see him doing much damage this afternoon.

Post-Dated Cut

Wake up England is the word; we badly need a wicket. The present prospect is a hundred up for Australia for no wicket. I wonder why Walter himself has not bowled; I suppose he is feeling his side.

Fingleton has arrived at the stage of his neat post-dated cuts; very fine the ball goes.

He has over post-dated one of them, and Walter pouches the catch. About time that something happened. Total 69 for one good wicket—the Fingo had played a useful innings, with his customary brown-faced assurance; he gave his side a start and took what runs came his way; a first-rate opening batsman.

So young Wright gets the first wicket, as we expected.

It was the last ball of the over. Don, Bradman's neat figure disengages itself from the massed membership of M.C.C. and seeks its familiar home at the wicket. Thus opens the crucial phase of the Australian innings.

Verity replaces Wright. I always like to see Verity have a go at the Don before the Don becomes too settled.

Simultaneously Farnes is trying once again from the Pavilion end. I cannot say our bowling looks passing dangerous. But the fall of Fingleton came out of the blue; so we must hope on.

Farnes is bowling all out; his black head seems to wobble with the effort of speed; he is doing well.

Quiet Flows The Don

On we go; quiet flows the Don. Australia in port with a hundred up. Verity is still sending along accurate and pensive stuff; he is drawing the Don out. And—And—the Don, in trying to chop the ball through the slips, chopped the ball down into his wicket.

A very unlucky accident. Meanwhile this William Brown is playing with unobtrusive success. He will be a good partner for Stanley McCabe if that Sahib is going to save his side again.

As At Nottingham

The said Sahib, who ought to be called Stanislaus McCabeus, is shaping terribly like his Nottingham self; and we shall be glad to see him go—unless we are fond enough of good cricket to swallow an opponent's success.

I have been examining the Sahib through strong binoculars; his face is the face one sees on Roman coins; he is the noblest Roman of them all; that is to say, he has scored 27 in about ten minutes. That Hotspur hook of his has beaten out a sixer and several fours. He attacks.

Wellard has had a spell, and now we have Farnes again. And in the first fall over there was an outside chance to first slip, very low to the right hand. The escape favoured Brown.

Wright relieves Verity, but the Kentish colt has not that lively spring from the pitch which makes him difficult on his day; he will do better in the second innings.

Historic Catch

Hedley Verity ended McCabe's career with an historic catch at backward-point off Farnes. Hedley fell as though shot, but the ball was in his hand. He fell leftwards with a sideways dive.

A great event this; S. J. McCabe was in full career; he was showing us the blade of a highly-cultured swash-

CHIPPERFIELD OUT OF IT

Chipperfield, who split a finger of his left hand yesterday when trying to stop a drive by Hammond off his own bowling, was taking no part in the match today. Waite fielded as substitute.

To-day's X-ray shows no fracture. Chipperfield may play on Monday.

Total 152; three men out. Another century for W. A. Brown, of Queensland, is dawning upon us; he has pushed his placid and polished way as far as 70.

Associated with him is the dapper blade of Hassett, ready to hook, ready to cut, ready to drive.

A fresh westerly wind is blowing, and the word rain is being passed round; we wonder what Fanny Walden's wrist is telling him now.

A fast rising ball from Farnes nicks the shoulder of Brown's bat, and flies high over the heads of all the slips. Brown searches for the spot on the wicket, but I do not think he found one. Brown was nearly left behind in Australia; he has proved a good choice.

General impression of the afternoon. The Don is out. Farnes is working away with wonderful stamina. Brown is proceeding in peace to plenty of runs.

In ten minutes we shall adjourn; and the score is 187.

An innovation arrives in young Edrich from the Pavilion end; he is a pacey fellow and may get a tickle.

Tea Score — 194 For 3

He, young Edrich, emitted in his first over a proper fast yorker which Brown staunchly with a dab that was only just in time.

Five minutes to go and Verity tries instead of Wright, but he does nothing but educe a fat hook from Hassett, counting four runs.

Tea, retirement; the total is 194 against us; Brown is 78.

We have a "night or Blucher" sort of feeling; but the position is better than its appearance.

Nothing is occurring in the phase after the interval except maiden overs by Edrich and Verity.

The loss of Walter Hammond as a bowler is being felt; he is just the man we need to-day always a Jack Hearn type for Lord's.

The 200 is boarded; and a wicket is badly required.

A harmless accident to Billy Brown would be a happy event, but Billy Brown is showing no inclination to error; he has scored 82.

Meanwhile Hassett is becoming vivacious and needs attention; a dangerous little fellow.

We are now on the eve of Billy Brown's century. He marks 92, but Hassett has the bowling.

He faces Wellard surveys the placing of the field, and scores a single; so does Hassett; and Brown poaches a successful snick through the slips to mark 97. He then took a maiden from Farnes.

Meritorious Cricket

The cricket is meritorious; but not exciting. The bright touches come from Hassett, who now and then cuts with a ringing sound of the bat.

Billy Brown has a chance at Wellard and is none too well fixed, but eventually he picks up a couple behind third man and a single to leg, and becomes a centurian.

He has occupied the bowlers for nearly three hours and a half and has helped his side a lot. He is good at running up strokes with his mashie.

Yes; and Hassett is becoming busy; he is the sort of batsman one needs beware of; a quick scorer when once set. He wears his cap with a Beatty tilt and seeks for a stroke off every ball.

The last hour of the day begins in ominous stability; nothing suggests we are going to displace Brown; none of the bowling is bothering Hassett.

We have not seen Wright for some time. He should be tried from the pavilion end. And does not Hutton get wickets with his leg breaks?

Well, on comes Wright, as advised; but he is bowling a shade too short. The Australians with three wickets down are 238 runs behind; they have pulled themselves out of a possible debacle with severe fortitude. We might have got Brown in the slips with luck; but that is about all; and it would have been quite lucky luck.

Then Came Relief

Just before six came relief. Wellard at last puts his name on the card by getting Hassett leg-before. A game 56 Hassett made, and his support of Brown lifted his side out of a difficult position.

I thought we should hear from Hassett.

More relief. In the same over Badcock got a good one from Wellard, which clean bowled him. This makes 276 for five wickets.

A couple more wickets in the next half hour would make all the difference. Left-handed Barnett and Brown will now work hard to play out time. We must make an effort.

Wellard, indeed, has found new vigour and Verity is on the spot; so something may occur.

The field closes up for Barnett but Barnett settles down to general fair-haired obstinacy, while Brown persists in his firm carefulness.

Every now and then a hard forcing stroke among his studied defensive measures. With one hard one he splits his trusty bat.

Some Are Gamblers

With a quarter of an hour to go the Australians are only 207 runs behind, with five men in hand. But these men are some of their gamblers, and one of them, Chipperfield, has a wounded hand.

The scoring now is steadier than ever. The close field is well placed; the bowling accurate.

Wellard having done his job gives place to Farnes, who will now heave in some athletic overs at top speed. Let us hope for luck.

Brown stands up to his solemn task with an ever watchful guard; I fear he will outlive the day.

To the fast stuff Barnett is less assured; he might tip a catch to the slips.

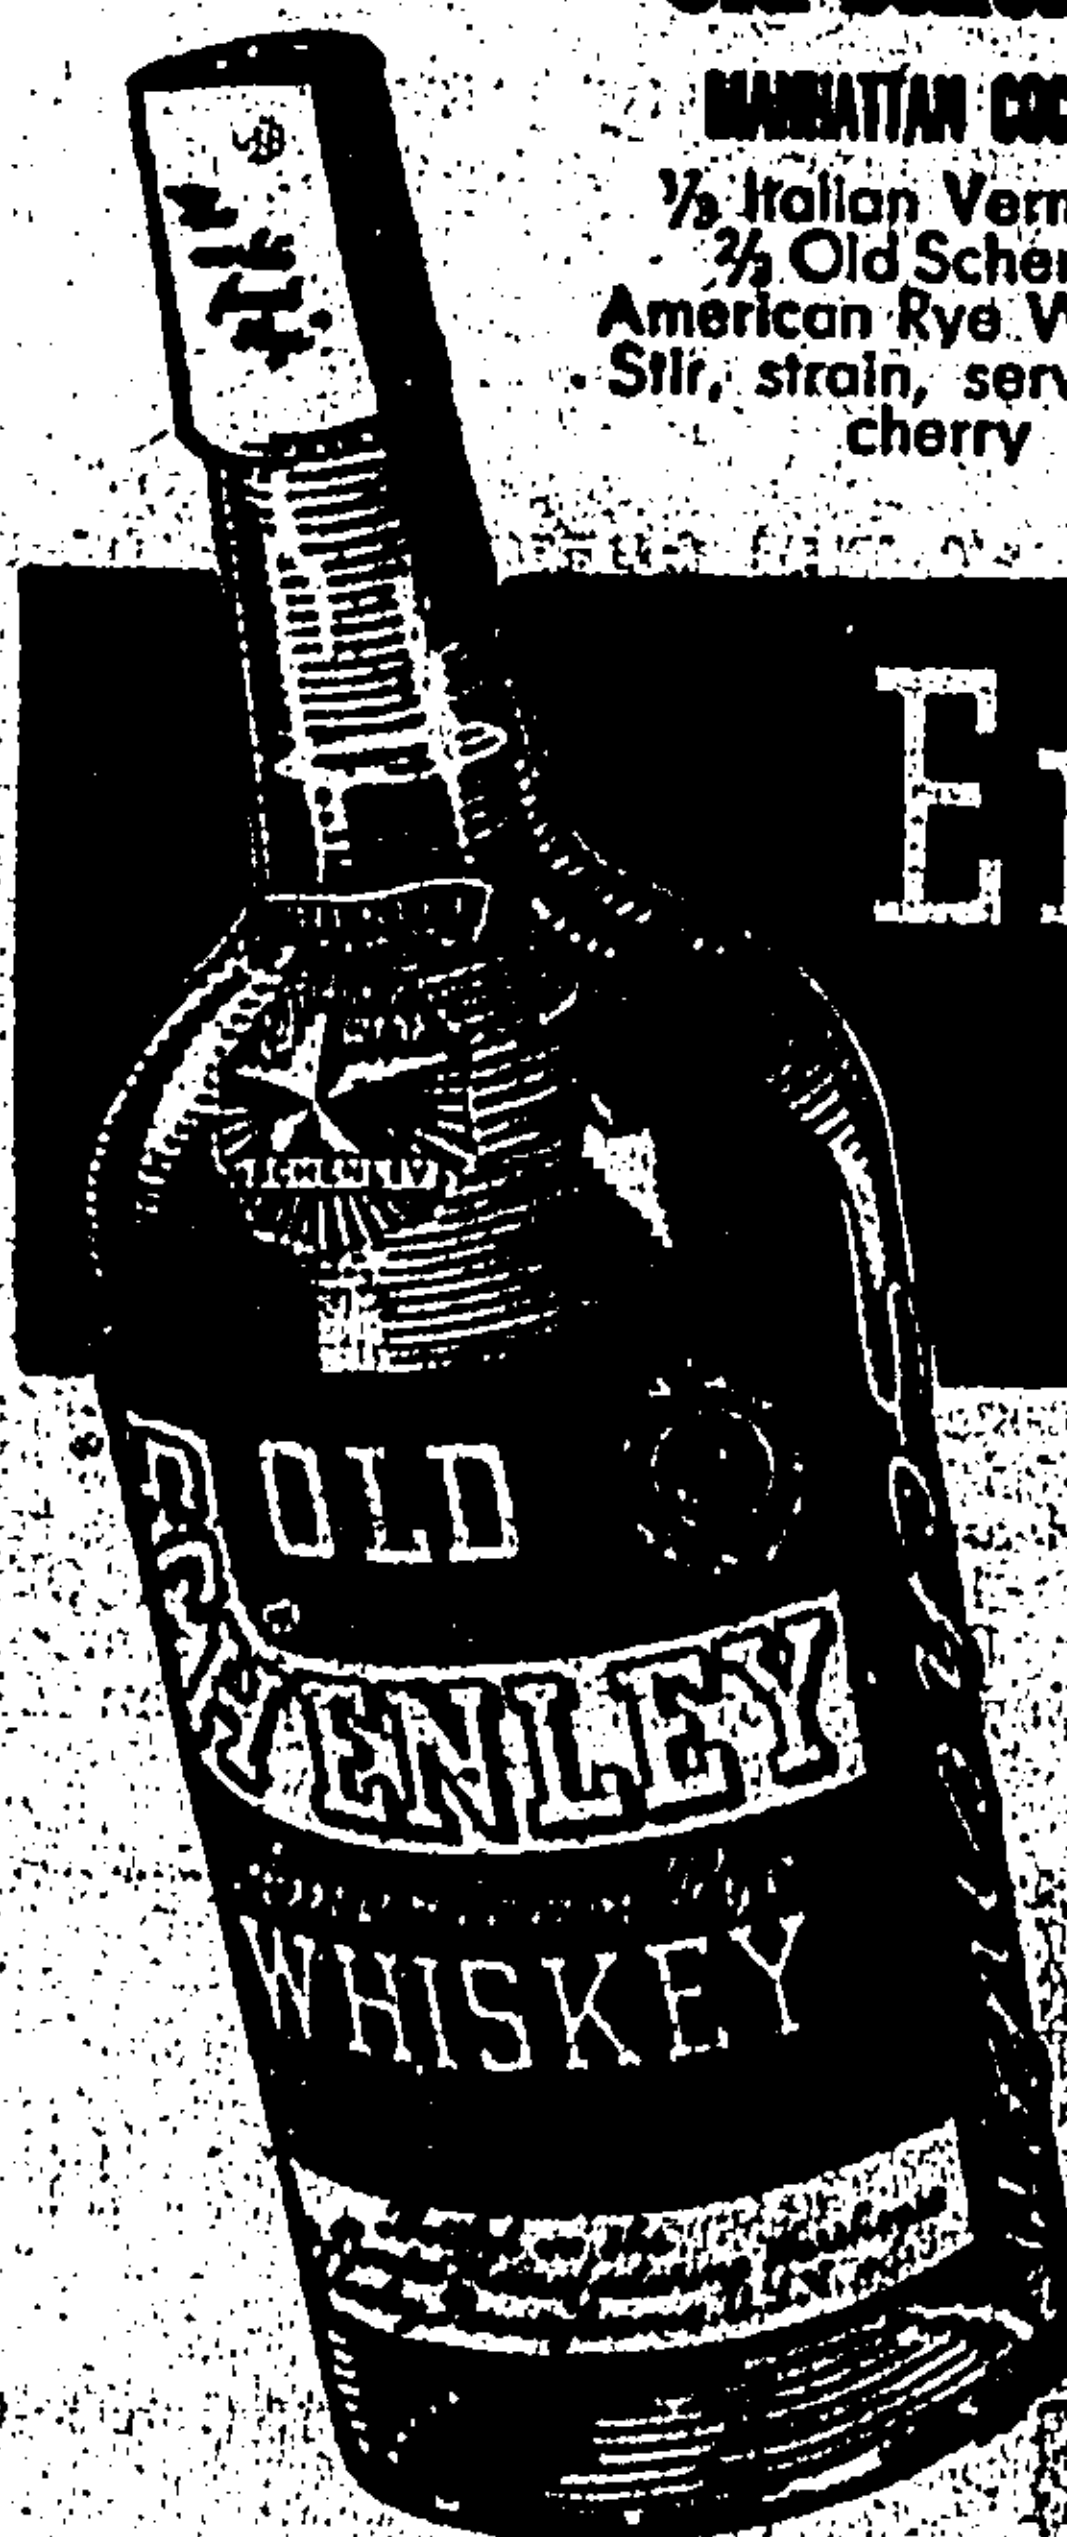

(COPYRIGHT)

Australia were 299 for 5 wickets at the close of play, W. A. Brown being 140 not out and B. A. Barnett 6 not out. England's first innings realised 494 runs.

A BIDDING PRINCIPLE

To-day's hand illustrates a bidding principle, namely that when you think you can count thirteen tricks in high cards you should contract for the Grand Slam in notrump on the theory that if you do pick a trump suit, it may break badly.

7NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

The entire hand is worthy of note, not only of two hearts, but of "reverse." It is a partner of a diamond suit and a powerful hand.

monds, tentatively suggesting a slam in that suit. When South bid six diamonds, North who had not as yet shown his great strength invited the grand slam with a bid of six spades. At this point East doubled to call for a spade lead in the event that South became declarer. Finally South, believing that the combined hands would contain thirteen top tricks, contracted for the grand slam in notrump.

A spade was opened, South winning with dummy's Ace. He led a diamond over to the Ace in his own hand. When West showed out, South took stock quickly and counted four club tricks, four diamond tricks, three hearts and one spade, a total of but twelve. However, he saw little doubt about the thirteenth. Obviously East held the King of spades as shown by his double of the six spade bid. Hence there was a simple squeeze play which South executed by playing the Ace, King, and Queen of hearts and discarding three small spades from dummy, and then running four club tricks. On the last of these club leads poor East was squeezed and was forced to discard the King of spades.

AT THE STAR—"Gold-Is Where You Find It"—Sweeping spectacle, rollicking comedy and epic thrills in a mighty drama of early California, filmed entirely in the new multiplane technique. With George Brent, Olivia de Havilland, Claude Rains, Margaret Lindsay, Barton MacLane, John Littel and Tim Holt.

AT THE ORIENTAL—"Cafe Metropole", with Adolphe Menjou, Loretta Young and Tyrone Power. A great story filled with novel surprises and a laugh at every minute.
